Welcome

Welcome to the 2009/10 edition of Stepping Higher, produced by LIFT OFF.

LIFT OFF brings together all the colleges and universities in Fife and Tayside as well as some institutions from other parts of the country. LIFT OFF is a theme of the Fife and Tayside Wider Access Forum and is supported by the Scottish Funding Council.

Universities accept a wide range of HNC and HND courses as entry qualifications to their degree courses. Stepping Higher is a comprehensive guide to these progression routes – many of which allow entry to year 2 or 3 of a degree course.

Thanks to all of the partner colleges and universities for providing the updated information for this year's booklet.

I hope you find Stepping Higher useful. A pdf of the booklet can also be found at our website www.lift-off.org.uk. Don't hesitate to contact us if you have any questions. Best wishes

Stepping Higher

What is Stepping Higher?

HNCs and HNDs are Higher Education qualifications that are studied at college. Both are available in a huge range of subjects and many can lead onto a wide range of degree courses.

Stepping Higher is a great tool for anyone who wants to know where an HNC or HND qualification can take them. Whether you're at college now, or still at school and wondering what to do next, Stepping Higher is for you!

The booklet contains details about all of the possible routes between HN and degree level study at our partner colleges and universities. It should be used as a guidance tool only, as entry to these degrees is not guaranteed by completion of the HNC or HND qualification.

If you are unsure of what any of the terms used in Stepping Higher mean, there is a handy glossary at the back of the booklet. Colleges in Fife and Tayside will also have agreed and informal articulation routes with a wide range of other institutions across Scotland and the UK. Contact the individual institutions for further information.

Colleges

Adam Smith College, Fife
Angus College, Arbroath
Carnegie College, Dunfermline
Dundee College
Elmwood College, Cupar, Fife
Perth College UHI

Universities/HE Institutions

University of Abertay Dundee
University of Dundee
University of Edinburgh
Edinburgh Napier University
Heriot-Watt University, Edinburgh
Queen Margaret University (QMU), Edinburgh
University of St Andrews, Fife

Colleges in Fife and Tayside will also have agreed articulation routes with a wide range of other institutions across Scotland and the UK. Contact the individual institutions for further information.

What's it all about?

If you decide you want to carry on studying after completing your HNC/D there are many options open to you, and Stepping Higher is designed to help you choose. It is laid out alphabetically by the general area of study (e.g. "Construction & Engineering" or "Science"), and then by college name.

However, it is important that you understand that the year of entry you may be offered with your HN qualification varies from course to course and institution to institution. In some cases your HN may be used as an entry qualification, in other cases it may offer you direct entry to Year 2 or 3 of a degree course.

For example:

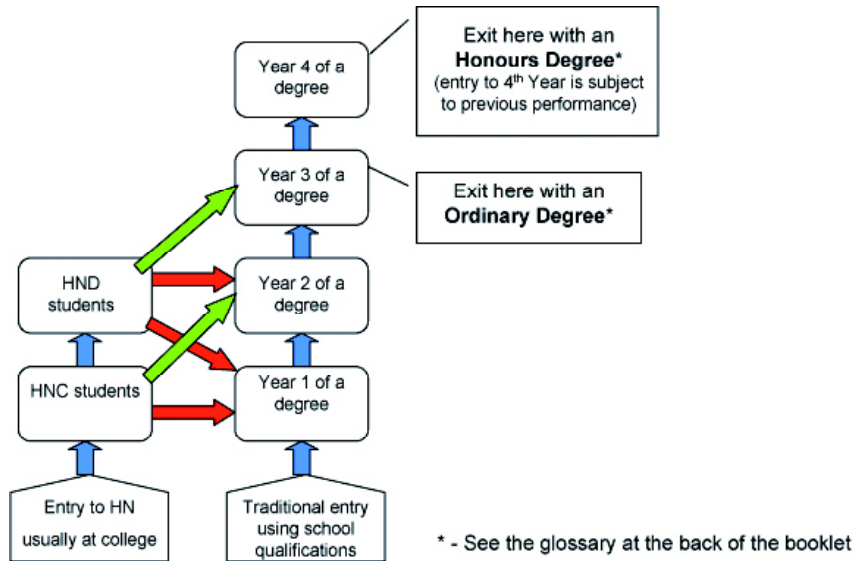

| HN Qualification | Possible year of entry |
|------------------|----------------------------|
| HNC | Year 1 Year 2 |
| HND | Year 1 Year 2 Year 3 |

The following diagram on page 9 shows how this may work:

Stepping Higher

Route Map of Progression

Blue arrows show the traditional progression through levels.

Green arrows show articulation routes.

Red arrows show other possible routes.

The probable year of entry is detailed in Stepping Higher for each course.

Why does the year of entry matter?

There can be financial implications, so you need to be careful. If you have an HND and the institution will only offer entry to Year 1, you will be liable to pay some tuition fees yourself. You should always check with the Students Awards Agency, Scotland (www.student-support-saas.gov.uk) and speak to the institution before making any decisions.

Why choose to go to college first?

If you want to continue studying beyond school, but are not sure that you want to commit yourself to a four-year course, then choosing an HNC is a great start. If you decide at the end of the year that you want to leave, you will do so with a good qualification. Alternatively, you can decide to continue at college and complete the second year and gain an HND, or to apply to university. Going to college is also a great way of topping up your qualifications if you don't achieve the Highers that you had hoped for. Studying at a local college may also mean that you can begin your post-school learning closer to home.

Stepping Higher

What does the 'Conditions' section mean?

Sometimes a college and university will have an agreement that means successful completion of the HNC or HND alone is enough to be considered for entry to the degree course. Sometimes, however, additional entry requirements are given.

For example, on page 51 you can see that the HND in Administration and Information Technology offered by Angus College can lead to entry at year 3 of the BA (Hons) Business Management degree offered by Edinburgh Napier University. The “Conditions” column indicates that you would need to contact Edinburgh Napier for details on conditions.

Remember that the universities always reserve the right to refuse entry to a course, so the routes described in Stepping Higher should be used for guidance only. You should always contact the institutions directly for further information.

What course? What institution?

Some people are lucky enough to know very early on what it is they want to do later in life. For most of us, however, choosing a course or where to study is not so straightforward. Before deciding you there are several things you should do.

1. Visit college and university websites.

There's loads of great information online, and it's the best way to browse through courses and scout out the range of opportunities that are out there. Web addresses are given at the back of this booklet.

2. Read through prospectuses

Prospectuses not only have all the course info you'll need for that institution, but are also sources of loads of other useful information, including what kind of support is available for students and info about student accommodation and finance.

3. Go to Open Days / Visiting Days

Attending Open Days is the best way to get a real idea about what the institution, and the department you're interested in studying in, are like. They provide great opportunities to ask questions and to meet lecturers and current students.

4. Speak to people!

There are loads of people around who can help you decide. Guidance staff in schools and colleges, Careers Scotland advisers and college and university Admissions staff are all there to listen and offer practical advice. They really are a great resource, so use them!

Stepping Higher

5. Think about what YOU want?

When you are uncertain about what course you want to study, it is easy to be tempted to apply for the same course as friends. This is rarely a good idea – after all, it's your education, shouldn't you be studying something you really care about? Before applying for a course, think hard about what it is about it that appeals to you. Why would you enjoy it and what do you want to do at the end of it? Choosing something you care about not only means that you will enjoy it more, but also that you're likely to do much better at it.

How many people go on from HN to degrees?

The table below shows the percentage of students articulating into these universities compared to all full time first degree entrants.

| Institution | Articulating* students as a % of all entrants |
|------------------------------|---|
| Edinburgh Napier University | 19.80% |
| University of Abertay Dundee | 14.40% |
| Queen Margaret University | 5.40% |
| University of Dundee | 2.70% |
| Heriot-Watt University | 3.90% |
| University of Edinburgh | 0.20% |
| University of St Andrews | 0.10% |

Glossary

Academic Reference

Required in the UCAS form, this is written by someone who is able to comment on your ability to do the course. This will normally be a teacher or a tutor, and cannot be a friend or family member.

Admissions

The department within colleges and universities that will initially deal with all applications.

Articulation or Articulation Route

This describes a formal agreement between a college and university for students to progress from an HNC or HND into a degree. Students articulating into a degree will normally start the degree at year 2 (HNC) or year 3 (HND).

Honours or Hons

This refers to the four year Scottish Degree. Students completing their final Honours year can specialise in a particular area.

Joint Honours

Universities offer a wide range of subjects that can be studied together to lead to a Joint Honours degree. Check out the websites or look at prospectuses to see the combinations that are available.

Ordinary Degree

Students can choose to graduate after three years of a Scottish Degree. This means they will gain an Ordinary, not an Honours Degree.

Open Day

Colleges and universities run several Open Days (sometimes called Visiting Days) for prospective students every year. It is definitely a good idea to go to a few of these before deciding where you want to study.

|---|--|
| SQA | Scottish Qualifications Authority |
| Personal Statement | Another requirement on the UCAS form, this is where you have a chance to talk about yourself, why you want to study the course you're applying to and what you would bring to it. A good personal statement is essential. |
| Prospectus | Produced annually by colleges and universities, these are catalogues of courses offered. They also contain lots of useful information about the institution. You can order prospectuses (which are free) through the institution's website or by 'phoning them. |
| Entry qualifications or Asking rates | These are the minimum requirements for entry to a particular degree course, and refer to Highers passed after one year of study. Meeting these requirements does not guarantee a place on the course. Each application is assessed on its own merits, and a good academic reference and personal statement are also essential. |
| Higher Education (HE) | This describes anything from an HNC up to an Honours Degree. HE can be studied at college or university. |
| Direct Entry | This describes entry to a degree through an articulation route (i.e. into year 2 or 3). |
| SAAS | Student Awards Agency Scotland. This is the body that funds Higher Education courses in Scotland. See their website for lots of useful information www.saas.gov.uk . |
